Assisting God's People to Proclaim, Celebrate, and Serve the Gospel of Life.

March 2007

To whom it may concern:

I write to express strong support for the work of Stephanie Gray and the many projects she conducts through the Canadian Centre for Bioethical Reform. I have known of Stephanie's work since 1999 and have known her personally since 2002.

Stephanie presents the pro-life message in a clear and compelling way and has a profound grasp of how to move people from denial and relativism to an acknowledgment of the truth and the moral law. I highly recommend her presentations.

Moreover, the projects she undertakes to reveal the horror of abortion are fully consistent with the approach taken by many other social reform movements throughout history and into our own day, whereby the hidden victim of injustice is made visible. The Genocide Awareness Project, for example, is bringing countless university students face to face with the reality of abortion. Hearts and minds are converted, children are saved, and pro-life people are activated to a greater level of sacrifice.

Having worked in pro-life activities on every level from the parish to the Vatican, where I served on the Pontifical Council for the Family, I can attest that the vast majority of pro-life leaders and activists understand that using graphic visuals is an essential component of winning the victory over this evil. Stephanie Gray and the Canadian Centre for Bioethical Reform are helping to bring us closer to that victory. I urge enthusiastic support for their work.

Sincerely,

Fr. Frank Pavone, M.E.V.
