

April 25, 2007

To whom this may concern,

The life preserving message and rationale of making abortion unthinkable is being continually communicated by the Canadian Centre for Bioethical Reform. Stephanie Gray is an articulate, passionate and compassionate spokesperson for life. She and others calmly and thoughtfully engage those who have just accepted abortion as a societal norm.

I have witnessed first hand CCBR's message and effect upon believing as well as yet-to-believe friends. I fully endorse the message of CCBR in speaking up for those who cannot speak. Within various teaching venues in our community of faith, Stephanie has challenged conventional thinking by courageously presenting clear, logical and compelling evidence of what is happening in much of the unborn world.

In recent days, the world has been challenged with the message of the impact of global warming on our planet and humanity. Experts fear rising sea levels, severe weather patterns, and other natural disasters will kill millions along the world's coastlines. Peoples of mainly third world nations will bear the brunt of this suffering. Yet this year, millions of a fourth world nation (of the unborn), because they are unseen and unheard, are suffering that same fate.

Stephanie and friends at CCBR desire to spark rational thought through word and image so that the societal norm would be for people to decide for life.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read 'Lawrence Yuen', with a stylized flourish extending to the right.

Rev. Lawrence Yuen
Vancouver Chinese Alliance Church - Knight St. & Fraser Lands Campuses